THREE MOTIONS TO DISMISS SUITS

DEFENDANTS ALLEGE FAILURE TO PROSECUTE—CASES NEARLY FOUR YEARS OLD.

Three motions to dismiss for want of prosecution have been filed in the Circuit Court in cases on the calendar for the term which opens next Tuesday. Two are by Bailou & Marx, in the cases of the Western Iron Works vs. Victor Hoffman and the Honolulu Brewery, and Nicholas Bros. vs. the same defendants. These motions set forth that the cases were begun in 1901 and have never been tried, though defendant has always been ready. The last time they were called, says an affidavit by Bailou, the postponement was granted because of an announcement by plaintiff's counsel that a material witness was absent in San Francisco, which statement, it is set forth, is now admitted to have been made through an error.

In the Western Iron Works case a substitution of counsel has been filed. Judge De Bolt was attorney for plaintiffs when the suit was begun, and the attorneys now are Smith & Lewis and L. J. Warren, J. W. Cathcart and C. C. Bittling.

The other motion for dismissal was filed by E. M. Watson, in the case of H. Tanaka vs. R. Tanaka, appealed from the District Court. The motion is on the ground of failure to comply with rules as to appeals.

SEPARATION DENIED

Judge De Bolt yesterday decided the Compro case, refusing a separation as asked for by the husband. The judge in giving his decision dismissing the complaint said that it appeared that both parties were equally to blame. He thought that the present arrangement was the best that could be brought about, the wife living away from her husband with the children, and added that she should allow him to see them at proper times.

A LION FOR A PET.

It is not allowed on the Carlsbad promenade, by edict of the city fathers.

CARL WIDEMANN NOT SERIOUSLY INJURED

from Punahoa to the Waikiki House. Magoon returned today by the Kinau and gave the details of the accident.

"We were riding horse back," said Magoon, "at the time of the accident. We had gone slightly ahead of Widemann. He stopped and got off his horse for the purpose of removing some of the twigs from his leggings. He sat on the ground. His horse was quite nervous and when Carl sat down he held the line so that the horse was facing him. The horse worked around, however, so that its hind feet were pointing at Carl. When the horse started to get away Carl pulled on the line and the horse kicked him.

"Widemann was struck on the nose and the left shoulder by the horse's hoofs. The left side of Carl's nose was broken. He was not rendered unconscious but was able to get on his horse and ride a distance of 25 miles to Honokaa where Dr. Buffett, I think that is his name, set the broken nose. While the injury is painful it is not dangerous and Carl was doing well when I left Hawaii. It is not thought that he will be disfigured by the injury."

CZAR'S SEA DOGS FORCED OUT OF THE PALACE

CONDUCT OF THE LENA'S COMMANDER AND SECOND OFFICER NOT ACCEPTABLE TO HOTEL.

SAN FRANCISCO, August 26.—Two officers of the Russian cruiser Lena, now interned at the Mare Island Navy Yard, were "out turned" from the Palace hotel during the small and quiet hours of yesterday morning. The night watchman of the big caravansary who is a pronounced sympathizer with the Japanese end of the dispute in the Far East, decided that the two officers of the Russian war vessel were not desirable guests, and compelled them to beat a hasty retreat into the night, with all of their small baggage and large indignation. Incidentally, two lady guests at the Palace Hotel were required to leave at the same time.

Captain A. Ginter, who is in command of the Lena, and his second officer, Captain S. Batmoff, are the two Russian naval officers who figured in the early morning episode.

For months, while war has been raging in the Orient, and more recently while the Russian and Japanese envoys have been sitting on opposite sides of a table at Portsmouth, N. H., sparring over the future ownership of the Lena, the Lena's officers have been making merry in San Francisco. Their parole from Mare Island permits them to journey as far as the city, and here at times they have been diligently lessening the horrors of international strife.

The dark days of the Russo-Japanese War pursued each other peacefully and joyously until the unexpected complication of yesterday arose. They were unceremoniously ejected from the Palace Hotel, and the big caravansary will no longer resound with their merriment or be honored with their gallantries. The Russian officers have returned to their more severe quarters on the Lena. The two ladies who were concerned in the early morning unpleasantness have sought other quarters in a more sequestered part of town.

The ladies who were concerned in the gallant adventures of the Lena's officers arrived at the Palace Hotel a week ago. One of the two claims to be the wife of a diplomat in Russia. The other is unmarried and registered from New York. They were the object of persistent attentions from the officers of the Lena almost from the day of their arrival and the actions of the quartet were the subject of much gossip about the hotel. Early yesterday morning the night watchman decided to interfere and in the face of violent protests in language that was not understandable, the Russian officers were unceremoniously required to settle their bill and depart.

Captain Ginter and Captain Batmoff threatened that the affair would develop into an international complication. The Palace Hotel authorities, however, do not fear any consequences. They are inclined to think that the Russian officers will probably be better pleased to have as little said about their conduct as possible.

A GRAVE OFFENSE.

In a small commune near Versailles in France the mayor has formally indicted a citizen for the grave offense of snoring. The accused attended a meeting of a municipal council and was so overcome by the eloquence of the mayor that he snored. This demonstration was so vigorous that the rest of the mayor's address could not be heard. The offender is charged with obstructing the transaction of public business and outraging the civic majesty.

AN UNAVAILING MOTTO.

"What has become of the copy book that used to say 'Honesty is the best policy?'" "It has been discarded by the present generation," answered the college professor. "It proved wholly ineffectual. Some of the most eminent grafters used that copy book in their education."
